RESEARCH INTEREST:

Conduct research in the areas of Project Management, especially on the stochastic side, Scheduling, and Inventory Control (many of the problems in these two areas of Operations Management have been combined to form Supply Chain Management), along with their applications in other functional areas of business and engineering. The research is basic and applied oriented, and it appeared in the premier journals. For details please see the list of publications, working papers, and professional presentations starting on the next page.

TEACHING INTEREST:

Teach graduate and undergraduate courses in Production and Operations Management, Management Science, Project Management, Production Planning and Scheduling, and Supply Chain Management,. Supervise graduate and undergraduate students in their research. Chaired ten Master Theses Committees, served on over 20 Master Theses Committees, and on 19 Ph.D. Committees, (Ph.D.s are all in other departments within UCR since SoBA/AGSM did not have a Ph.D. program up to 2013, and the master's thesis requirement has been made optional at AGSM over 15 years ago). Supervised over 50 independent studies and internships. Revised or initiated over 38 courses in the MBA and undergraduate Business Administration programs.
